INSURANCE COMPANIES WILL FIGHT FEDERAL TAX.

MEETING OF PRESIDENTS OF ALL LIFE COMPANIES OPENED AT WASHINGTON TODAY.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19—Executives of life insurance companies represent more than sixteen million policy holders, out of a total of twenty million in the United States and Canada, were in attendance today at the opening session of the third annual meeting of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents.

President Taft and Governor Hughes of New York, delivered brief addresses.

Aside from these speeches the feature of the day was a discussion by insurance experts of ways and means by which the companies may legally engage in the movement to lengthen the span of human life. Reinsurance, or the amalgamation of small companies was considered, as was the problem of securing uniformity in the laws regulating life insurance companies.

The annual report of year's work shows that with the legislatures of 44 states and the Canadian parliament in session during the year more than 130 bills affecting insurance were dealt with by the association. None of the measures finally enacted will seriously interfere with the administration of the business of the companies or "add materially to the burden on policyholders."

Out of the mass, the report says, only one measure affects the business adversely and that is the federal corporation law. Practically every life insurance company in the country co-operated with the association in the effort to get congress to exempt life insurance companies from the tax and while the effort was unsuccessful it is stated that amendments were introduced which cleared the law of ambiguity. The rate was reduced from two per cent to one per cent. Computed on this basis the tax on the members of the association alone will amount to about $775,000.

The report states that the general counsel of the association believes that the law is unconstitutional, and in view of this "it would seem to be the duty of the executive officers of life insurance companies to begin and carry to a final determination a vigorous contest of the law."

The report recalls that the association is preparing for the appointment of a commission of experts to investigate and make recommendations regarding the taxation of life insurance and states that a model code of insurance laws is being perfected. The report says: "A demand for such a measure has arisen in connection with the desire of various states having no general or comprehensive form of insurance laws. Other states having codes of codes or old ones are anxious to react them along more up-to-date lines. Our intention is not to initiate legislation of this kind, but merely to answer the demand which comes with frequency from state officials. We believe that such a code would enable us to do much toward extending uniformity of state laws, a matter of great importance, and just now timely in view of the general movement in this direction."

Hankins says:

Price is not the only thing to be considered when drugs are the topic. You must know that they are pure. You must know that they are of the right quality. You must know that they are faithful instead of harmful. You must know that they are what the people don't know drugs and when you trust their druggist it is well for you to come to a reliable drug store like ours.

CANADIAN OFFICIAL WEDDING TODAY.

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 19—A wedding which has attracted much attention in Canadian official and social circles, will take place late this afternoon, when Miss Janet Fielding will become the bride of Katusoff Nicolson McGee, of London. Miss Fielding is the beautiful daughter of the Dominion Minister of Finance and Mrs. W. S. Fielding, and is highly popular in the society of the Canadian capital. The ceremony will be performed in the First Baptist church, and will be followed by a reception at the Fielding home.

A PRESENT

We will give any man, woman or child $50.00 who will come into our store, and can break a Majestic Range. We will allow anyone to try. Now isn't there something that sounds good about this? Try other stove dealers if they will allow such a test.

CHIEF OFFICERS OF THE UNITED MINE WORKERS, WHO ARE TO DEMAND GENERAL WAGE INCREASE.

EDWIN PERRY

Mine operators in the middle west have been conferring by letter for several weeks regarding the wage increase which they believe will be demanded by the miners following the convention of the United Mine Workers of America at Indianapolis. While President Lewis and Secretary Perry of the mine workers have made no public statement as to the possibility of a general demand for increased wages, many of the delegates and heads of local unions have so expressed themselves. These men assert that the increased cost of living has hit the miners as hard as any other class of workmen, and they are in earnest in urging the chief officers of the union to enter into negotiations with the mine operators. On the other hand the operators insist that they will agree to no advance, and they hint that they are in a better position to resist it than they have been before in years. This they base on the fact that they have large accumulations of coal on hand because of the inability of the railroads to move it.

NEW JERSEY FARMER SAYS WIFE OF 76 IS UNTRUE.

COUPLE LIVED HAPPILY TOGETHER
FOR HALF A CENTURY —
NOW SHE HAS AN AFFINITY.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19—One of the strangest cases ever heard in the Camden chancery court is that set for today in which Franklin Davenport, aged 77, asserts that his wife, 76 years young, has been unfaithful, and that one Aaron Huff has won her affections. Davenport is a New Jersey farmer. He asserts that he lived happily with his wife for half a century. The case came up through a demand for an allowance made by Mrs. Davenport, who alleges that her husband had of late failed to provide for her.

TARIFF LEAGUE TO MEET TOMORROW.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Some of the champion catch-as-catch-can standpatters in the country will attend the annual session of the American Protective Tariff League, and many delegates arrived today. The meeting will be held tomorrow.

SOUTH HONORS MEMORY OF GENERAL ROBERT E. LEE.

A LEGAL HOLIDAY IN MOST OF
THE SOUTHERN STATES—BUSINESS SUSPENDED IN MANY CITIES.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19—The one hundred and third anniversary of the birth of Gen. Robert E. Lee was celebrated throughout the South today in Virginia as well as Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Alabama and Arkansas the day is observed as a legal holiday. Business was practically suspended in many of the towns and cities and the schools were opened in the morning only to allow commemorative exercises to be held. Particularly elaborate were the celebrations in Alabama, where the Confederates established their first capital. The Confederate veterans and the Daughters of the Confederacy conducted the memorial exercises.

SING CONFEDERATE SONGS.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 19—Gen. Lee's birthday was generally observed throughout the State today and many societies in this city held commemorative services with music, speeches and singing of old Confederate songs.

DAIRYMEN CLAIM THEY DO NOT GET ALL THE PROFIT.

ILLINOIS MILK AND BUTTER PRODUCERS ALLEGE THAT THEY HAVE NO VOICE IN FIXING THE PRICE OF PRODUCTS.

VANDALIA, Ill., Jan. 19—Illinois dairymen, who are gathered here today for the annual session of their state association, assert that they have not shared largely in the increased price of milk and butter in Chicago and other cities, although it is generally admitted that the year has been a prosperous one for those engaged in the industry. Officials of the State Dairymen's Association declare that the body has absolutely nothing to do with the fixing of prices, and that their only object is to improve the products and place the industry on a more scientific basis. To this end there will be practical work in milk and cream testing and butter judging and lectures by practical and prominent dairy and agricultural experts.

CORNELL PROFESSOR TALKS ON FARMING

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 19—President Jacob G. Schurman of Cornell University has gone to Albany today, where he will address the meeting of the New York State Agricultural Society on "Agricultural Education."

FORTY GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH IN PHILADELPHIA.

TO TAKE VETO POWER FROM HOUSE OF LORDS.

LIBERAL LEADERS MAPPING LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM, MOST RADICAL IN THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

LONDON, Jan. 19—Odds of twenty to one that the Liberals will control Parliament were offered on the stock exchange today without takers.

The Liberal leaders are today mapping out a legislative program, the most radical ever proposed in England. Among the proposals is to take away the veto power from the House of Lords, to reintroduce the budget and Irish home rule. If successful in this legislation the Liberals will begin a fight to make the House of Lords an elective body.

Four Large Factories Now Seething Furnaces.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19—Between one and two score of girls are reported to have lost their lives in a fire which shortly before noon broke out in a four story building occupied by Shadaker & Sons, shirt manufacturers.

The factories of four other firms employing girls are now seething furnaces.

Five bodies have thus far been recovered.

Between fifty and one hundred girls were imprisoned in the upper floors. Many jumped and were seriously injured. Thirty were removed to the hospital.

Latest reports say that forty are dead.

Pandemonium Reigned on New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—The big stock exchange firm of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., and J. M. Fiske & Co., announced their suspension on the Stock Exchange in the break of 50 points in Hocking Coal and Iron stock about noon.

Pandemonium ensued on the Exchange, prices generally breaking badly.

DATE FOR THE PRIMARIES SET FOR MAY 10 AND JUNE 7.

CIRCUIT JUDGES AND STATES' ATTORNEYS ARE ELIMINATED FROM OFFICERS TO BE NOMINATED.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 19—Setting the date for the first primary for May 10th, with the second to follow thirty days later, taking the circuit court judges and district attorneys out of the primary, turning down a resolution for a State convention and deciding to place that question before the people in the primary in May, the State Democratic Committee held one of the most important meetings in this city yesterday afternoon that has been held since the abolishing of the old convention system.

The members of the committee were nearly all in attendance at the Aragon Hotel about one o'clock. The meeting was marked by considerable discussion. The members were clearly for the continuance of the State primary system.

Judge Martin, of Brooksville, introduced a resolution calling for a State convention for 1910 for the nomination of State officers and the adoption of a State platform. This was turned down by a vote of about three to one.

Mayor Semple, of Key West, then introduced a resolution providing for the decision by the voters in May as to whether or not the primary system shall be continued. This was adopted. It is similar to the provision made regarding this question in 1904.

All State and county officers this year will be chosen at the primaries with the exception of the circuit judges and the district attorneys. Other provisions will be made for their selection.

FLOOD ANTICIPATED AT EVANSVILLE, INDIANA

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 19—A flood is expected along the lower Ohio river today as the result of the breaking of an ice gorge at Leavenworth yesterday. The river rising rapidly and breaking the gorge caused a half million dollars damage at Leavenworth.

Miss Adelaide L. Haynes, of Elmira, N. Y., is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Ross, of Volusia avenue.

WALL STREET FLOODED BY BROKEN WATER MAIN.

BASEMENTS FLOODED AND ELEVATOR DISABLED—TENEMENTS WALKED UP TEN FLIGHTS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—A broken water main flooded Wall street early today, forming a geyser 40 feet high.

Basements in the vicinity of the Sub-Treasury building, J. P. Morgan's offices and the Manhattan Trust Company's eighteen-story building were filled.

Water reached the first steps of Morgan's offices. The elevator in the Manhattan Trust building were put out of commission and tenants walked up ten flights of stairs to their offices.

ANSWER TO TRAINMEN AND CONDUCTORS TOMORROW.

NOT EXPECTED THAT THEY WILL BE FINAL BUT A CONFERENCE WILL PROBABLY RESULT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—The answer of thirty-two railroads centering in New York to the recent demands of trainmen and conductors for a large increase of wages and reduction of working hours will be made in writing tomorrow. Railroad men refuse to discuss what the answer will be.

It is believed that the answer will not be final, but a conference is expected to result.

A strike of 150,000 railroad men may possibly result if negotiations fail.

By L. C. DEMAREE.
One of Daytona's crowning glories is her incomparable beach. No one who ever set foot upon its smooth, packed sands; no one who ever pedaled a bicycle over its expanse; no one who ever drove a prancing pair of horses and listened to the popping of their steel shoes upon its asphaltum-like face; no one who ever steered a high-power automobile down the broad stretch of wave-washed and surf-packed sand but realized that it is a world-beater, a world-wonder. Go stand upon this wide speedway and see the happy souls flit by in joyous mood, and answer whether this is not one of the seven modern wonders.

The Placid, Pellucid Halifax River.
Where think you is water with more picturesque surroundings? Nearly a mile wide, fringed with tropical vegetation, artistic cottages with roomy verandas looking out upon her bosom, gamey food fishes in countless numbers lolling, as it were, to those with rod and reel; her bosom flecked with duck and coot and snowy-winged sea birds, which sit about as if for the sport of bobbing upon the waves; watch that lubberly old white headed pelican pouch a fat mullet, and that fish hawk struggling upward with his floundering load he snatched from the water.

See the beautiful launches, spick and span, their hampers and lockers bulging with refreshments both solid and liquid ready for a cruise upon the beautiful surface. Take out your field glass and sweep the river from Ormond's bridge to Ponce Park light house, then say whether the Halifax isn't a thing of beauty and a joy forever, and one of the modern wonders.

The Enchantingly Picturesque Ridgewood.

Ridgewood avenue is upon the crest of a broad ridge, straight as the crow flies and the wide-spreading branches of the heavy-trunked live oaks extend their giant arms across the magnificent vista, forming an arch, and from these extended arms great festo-oons of Spanish moss sway as the trade winds from the tropic seas fan them. Looking straight ahead down this white shell street one has the impression of a fairy path with elfish draperies, but as you move along and cast an eye first to the right and then to the left you see distinguished cottage homes in the most delightful settings.

See the glistening leaf of the grand magnolia which nature has varnished as no artists' brush ever could; and the cabbage palms with their burdens of showy fruit and swaying palms;
see the lovely holly with its exquisite berry; see the climbing vines run riot in the trees; see the cryp-tomonas forms which gain a foothold on the great oaks and stately palms, and surely you will join in the chorus and say that this is a world wonder for beauty.

Surpassing Beauty of Our Cottage Homes.

No one of Daytona's attractions, perhaps, commands more nearly universal attention and praise than does the artistic cottages. The owners of these charming villas hail from every corner of the country and they bring their own architectural plans and build upon them, and, as the architecture of one section of the country differs from the architecture of another, so do our homes differ in outward appearance and structural beauty for one another. There are no monotonous rows of strikingly similar buildings but the eye, as it sweeps by, is treated to a kaleidoscopic change which keeps the mind wondering,
"What next?"

It is not only the exterior of many of these homes which rivets attention; within they are models of convenience, and the finishing and furnishing give evidence of the elegance and cultivation of those who worked it all out. Indeed, it is the interior arrangement and artistic furnishing and shading, more than the exterior appearance that gives a surpassing charm to Daytona homes. This feature justly merits prominence as another wonder.

Streets and Pavements the Most and Best.

Why the Architect of the Universe chose to give Daytona the most admirable, the most picturesque natural setting of all the cities of the South is not revealed, but that such is a fact must be apparent to the most superficial observer. With such lavish wealth of natural beauty it became an easy thing for the hand of man to give the finishing touches which have wrought out the colors and outlines of the big picture.

Man did all this in the laying out of the streets with their wide margins of parkage. The entire city becomes a great park, with driveways intersecting, miles upon miles of driveways so good as to attract motorists from all over the continent.

And as for the pavements, pavements that look and act like granite, —where else between the eastern and western seas are so many miles in proportion to inhabitants? The pavement question stands with the street as one of the chief drawing cards. Till some unheard of place reports more and better, Daytona throws down the gauntlet to the world.

Squirrels, Flowers, Birds and Frut.
Whatever oone's shortcomings and however indifferent or even callous one may be to many things, the mere mention of "flowers and Squirrels, birds and fruits" will send a thrill that is reflected in distended pupils and pricked ears.

For every visitor with a spare goob-er there is a bunny ready to come and accept your gift. He will sit bolt upright and know into the meat, casting furtive, saucy glances at you meanwhile.

Flowers. Usually fresh and blooming the year 'round you are reminded of Goldsmith's couplet where Smiling spring its earliest visit paid
And summer's lingering blossoms are delayed.

In one yard roses of variegated hues predominate; another household has a penchant for the poinsettia and the premises are aflame; another is hidden in a jungle of tall cane. Variety is the spice of life and here is where you find it.

The birds flit in, and with their joyous notes help to give fullness and symmetry to the picture.

As for fruits, choice citrus fruits, Daytona yields the palm to none for quality and quantity per acre. There are scores of citrus groves in proximity to the city, branches bending to the earth with their burdens of luscious golden globes, which for beauty, prolificacy and all desirable qualities would truly astonish you.

The Fastest Autos and The Finest Out.

The seventh world wonder, do you ask? Come, whether from Missouri or from Maine, from Kalamazoo or Timbuckto, and you will be "shown."
Here is where the world's record for speed is broken with every recurring season. Autos, the biggest, the fastest, and the finest are on daily parade and the big show is as free as the pure artesian water from the thousands of flowing wells. It is a continuous show with constantly shifting scene.

Everything goes, from a 2-horse power, up to a 200-horse power, and all degrees of speed from snail to a two-mile-a-minute clip. You will probably catch the spirit, when you do the roads and the beach are yours.
The Florida sunshine is free, the balmy ocean breezes are free, the birds and squirrels and flowers are free, the sparkling fountain water is free and you will have to go down into your wallet only for coin for auto, and bed and board.

This is no fanciful picture; it's all here. It is drawing other thousands and holding them enthralled, it will charm and hold you. Come and see.

PROGRESSIVE NEW SMYRNA

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man runneth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, its miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by hoary forest giants that grew in state-ly grandeur during the lapse of by-gone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accommodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile. Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicker. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO
Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional garb, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and islands, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

HAWKS PARK
A pretty village located along the ridge above the Indian River two and one-half miles south of New Smyrna and connected with fine shell roads. There is the appearance of newness, comfort and seclusion about the place which stamps it as the abode of people who come here to enjoy the blessings of outdoor life away from places where crowds are apt to gather.

PORT ORANGE, FLA.

ORMOND is five miles north of Daytona, located on the western bank of the Halifax River. The location of the town permits of good drainage and perfect sanitation; the elevation is superb and ideal for winter homes. A wide bridge connects Ormond with Ormond Beach. Many fine residences are maintained on either side of the river, most of them embellished with sub-tropical flora and shrubbery, besides thrifty orange and other citrus fruit trees.

The town is very cosmopolitan, has an excellent graded school, several churches, a fine public library, up-to-date places of business and comfortable and convenient hotels and boarding houses.

Ormond has many of the Florida attractions—fine fruit, good fishing, excellent automobilism, safe boating, salubrious climate and pleasant walks and drives.

At Ormond Beach is located the large Hotel Ormond, and its lesser sister, Bretton Inn. The former occupies a position overlooking the Halifax River, while the latter has as its outlook the magnificent beach and the broad Atlantic.

The walks in all directions are particularly attractive, and the arbors, shady and inviting spots and romantic nooks are crowded with rustic seats which are mute invitations to enter into the enjoyment thereof.

Besides the broad, smooth ocean beach there are many drives for carriage or automobile—long drives and short drives; drives through groves of golden oranges; drives through dense tropical forests to Spanish ruins; drives to the ancient Causeway built by the slaves of planters of long ago, and drives to the plantations of hospitable settlers, whose places are replete with the interest of Southern fruits and flowers.

One of these interesting plantations is Number Nine, located on the peninsula, five miles north of the Hotel Ormond. Here you see a fine orange grove, together with great varieties of other sub-tropical fruits and flowers. Five miles further on you come to Moundgrove, one of the finest orange groves in this section of Florida. Moundgrove is on the headwaters of the Halifax River and is amid pretty surroundings. The place is reached by a good road (passing Number Nine) and is a drive all tourists may enjoy.

PICTURESQUE PORT ORANGE

PORT ORANGE is a pretty little village situated five miles south of Daytona on the Daytona-New Smyrna hard-surface road, the scenic highway of the East Coast. The town is located on the Halifax River, over which spans a bridge from the town to the peninsula opposite.

The town is well laid out and has many pretty homes owned and occupied by residents and winter tourists. It has several churches, one of the best graded schools in Volusia county, two general stores, a real estate agency and two or three hotels.

A large number of tourists and winter residents make Port Orange winter headquarters, one of the several attractions being the excellent fishing. Port Orange is in the orange belt and a number of very fine citrus groves are nearby, where oranges, tangerines and grape-fruit hang in profusion. Some of the best trucking land in the State is to be found thereabout and excellent crops are raised.

West of Port Orange a short distance are the remains of the old Dunlawton sugar mill, a spot that is visited every year by hundreds of tourists. At one time all the country west of Port Orange, surrounding the old mill, was a vast sugar-cane and indigo plantation. The mill was operated extensively in those days but has been in disuse for thirty or forty years.

A pretty automobile or carriage drive from Daytona is via the ocean beach to the approach of the Port Orange bridge, across the bridge and then passing through Port Orange to the ruins of the celebrated old sugar mill, returning to Daytona by the road on the mainland. This drive affords a very pleasing variety of scenery.

DELAND, THE ATHENS OF FLORIDA

Volusia County, is situated 23 miles southwest of Daytona and is reached from the latter city by an excellent hard-surface road recently constructed.

At Deland is located the John B. Stetson University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South. Because of the interest in matters educational Deland is known as "The Athens of Florida."

Stetson University has a faculty of 50 professors and instructors. There are over $400,000 in buildings and equipment; nearly $300,000 endowment; a Carnegie Library alone representing an investment in building, endowment and books, of more than $120,000. The library is the United States Government depository for the State of Florida, and contains over 15,000 volumes. Science Hall, one of the newest of 16 buildings, with its furnishings, represents an outlay of $60,000. Elizabeth Hall is one of the most beautiful college buildings in the South.

The city has a population of about 3,500, with a thickly settled country adjacent. Deland proper is five miles east of the St. Johns River, on the high, rolling pine land of the great "Orange Ridge" of Florida.

The predominating products are oranges and grapefruit, the estimated crop from this vicinity being over 300,000 boxes this year. Grapes, peaches, pears, Japan persimmons, plums, pecans, guavas, strawberries and other fruits are grown in plenty.

In the way of public improvements are many miles of fine shell roads, an excellent high school, electric lights, a system of waterworks that is owned and operated by the city, supplying the purest water at little cost.

Nine houses of worship testify that Deland is a church-going community. Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists (Northern and Southern), Presbyterians, Christians and Catholics, besides colored Baptists and Methodists, are represented.

The graded school offers a ten years' course, and the building which it occupies is newly furnished throughout, and is one of the most commodious and best equipped public schools in the State.

The trip from Daytona to Deland is made by automobile in a little over an hour, and there are many pretty drives in the vicinity of the county site. A good road leads to DeLeon Springs, five miles, a historic spot, where 60,000 gallons of water bubble from the earth every minute.

From Deland automobiles go south to Osteen, 18 miles, on shell and marl roads; the St. Johns is crossed by ferry near Osteen and cars can then continue to Sanford and Orlando by hard road. There is a shell road from Deland to Orange City, five miles, and a good road from Deland to Lake Helen, a like distance.

LAKE HELEN

Surrounded by several pretty lakes and guarded by lofty pine trees is Lake Helen, a winter resort of no little importance. Camp Cassadaga, a spiritualistic camp-ground is situated near Lake Helen and at this place several hundred people make winter headquarters. A large lumber mill and the largest brick plant in the South are located at Lake Helen.

ORANGE CITY

The principal attraction around Orange City is the many handsome golden orange groves. The town is supplied with water said to be the purest in the world, another attraction to visitors. It is at Orange City that passengers over the Florida East Coast Ry. transfer to carriages and drive to Deland. The town is surrounded by land peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of citrus fruits.

GEM CITY MINSTRELS

PLAYED TO PACKED HOUSE.

EVEN STANDING ROOM WAS AT A PREMIUM AT THE CRYSTAL THEATER TUESDAY NIGHT.

As predicted by the Daily News the Crystal Theater was crowded to its utmost capacity Tuesday night by a crowd of regular residents and visitors desirous of seeing and hearing the now celebrated local minstrel troupe, the Gem City Minstrels, in a benefit performance for the Daytona Base Ball Team. W. G. Nash, manager of the ball team, and a member of the Mandolin Club, wore a satisfied smile, which expanded visibly every time his glance rested upon that well filled house.

So great was the demand for seats that fully one hundred persons were unable to gain admission.

Otis R. Pellecier, who makes a capital interlocutor, again filled that important part and the black face parts were well handled by Messrs. J. B. Baldwin, Guy Hurd, Henry Politz, Harry Erickson, D. W. S. Snead, Fairfax Ludlow, R. D. Taylor and Percy Rodgers, with Baldwin and Erickson as end men. The jokes as dished out were both rare and well done and were either new or so ancient that their resurrection gave them new life. J. B. Baldwin, one of the later additions to the troupe, is a live wire as funny man and captured the house with his songs, "This is No Place for a Minister's Son," and the encore, "Mother Hasn't Spoke to Father Since."

All the songs were well received including "Like I Had Some Sense," by Guy Hurd; "Farewell," by Harry Erickson; "Some Day When Dreams Come True," Eric Mills; "I Wonder How the Old Folks Are at Home," L. J. Cowan; "If I Had the World to Give You," by Otis Pellecier and "I'll Love You For Evermore," by Will Roxby. The music in fact, both vocal and instrumental, was excellent throughout. The always popular Gem City Quartet received a full measure of applause and the Mandolin Club brought a spontaneous burst of appreciation that demanded an encore.

The song, "In the Days of '61," by Otis Pellecier, was illustrated by a charming tableau, with Miss Susie Pellet as a Red Cross nurse and Will Roxby as the dying soldier boy.

A new feature of this entertainment was a wonderful performance by "Scrap Iron," the vice-jawed man, who easily bent rods of solid iron, held in his strong jaws and masticated glass as readily as a young lady would chocolates.

The entertainment closed with the ridiculous Council Meeting burlesque by W. C. Smith enacted by the black face detachment. A number of excellent local hits were made during the evening, some of which could only be appreciated by those on the inside. These bouquets were, in fact, very generously distributed among the business men and other citizens, including city officials.

Between scenes there were several runs of well selected moving pictures and the music by Wood's Orchestra was up to the usual high standard.

During an intermission, song books were offered for sale and almost every member of the audience was cheerfully stung to the amount of ten cents to swell the fund for the base ball cause.

W. F. Thomason was general manager and W. C. Smith was in charge of the stage.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

LOVE SPEECHES VERSUS DEEDS.

"Do you love your wife? If you do, then do not fail to tell her so. Let no day go by without some word of affection."

Thus do the advisory writers admonish the married man.

Which is very well, but—

Here is a Minneapolis woman who has sued her husband for divorce because he spends his time making love to her instead of working to support her!

In her complaint this woman says her husband kisses her until she is sick of his attentions. He calls her all manner of pet names, but does nothing to help her.

Doubtless she thinks with the old saying that "fine words butter no parsnips."

For this husband not only fails to butter the parsnips, but compels her to hustle about to get the parsnips.

The wife is right.

Protestations of love with nothing to back them up are like the crackling of thorns under the pot—noise without significance.

Love is of account only in action.

Love is proved by deeds. It must do as well as say. Words may satisfy a heart hunger for awhile, but in the meantime the stomach may grow hungry, and as between heart and stomach the former can stand the longer siege of poverty.

Even the novelist, who is expert in love conversation, is under compulsion to get a move on his lover that he may verify the soft talk.

The husband who really loves his wife will strive with all his might to save her from hardships and to give her all the comforts and as many of the luxuries of life as he may be able to secure.

Love is another word for sacrifice.

Love means self denial.

The husband who loves his wife will be not only affectionate, but helpful. Love is unselfish. It does not take, but gives.

There are plenty of husbands who are short on words. In speech they are naturally undemonstrative. They are not given to expression. But they are genuinely in love with their wives.

In fact, most men are built that way. Romantic love discourses are well enough in their way, but unless backed up by actual effort and real unselfishness they are "as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal."

A man may be as reticent of love speeches as Miles Standish, but constant in devotion to the day of his death.

The Books We Read.

What we read has an actual effect on us. Books are also like people in that. The people among whom you spend most of your time will make you more or less like them, and the books you read will make your mind something like themselves. If we get into the habit of reading silly or careless or cheap literature we gradually lose the power to read what is strong and true and fine. It is occasionally necessary to take a good deal of trouble to read a fine book, just as it requires care and time to do a fine piece of work. But it is worth the trouble. What is called a taste for good literature is one of the most delightful possessions in life. We must begin to get this taste while we are still young or we run a risk of never getting it at all, in which case we lose forever out of our lives all the beautiful and wise and noble books which the world has been making for us these many hundred years. It would be like going about in a few ugly rags when the closet upstairs is full of charming clothes ready to put on and ours only for the trouble of unlocking the closet door.—St. Nicholas.

Brotherly Resentment.

Young Mother (proudly)—Everybody says the baby looks like me. Bachelor Brother (amazed)—The spiteful things don't say that to your face, do they?

Secrets.

"Don't complain of people tellin' you secrets," said Uncle Eben. "You couldn't do it if you hadn't started it."

NEWS ABOUT ORMOND AND ORMOND

RESIDENTS AND SOJOURNERS

TOLD IN INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS.

Monthly examinations have been in progress at the school this week.

Did you notice that new sign on the postoffice building? Boys who ride their wheels on the walk in front of the postoffice should take warning.

F. P. Freeman is completing a garage in the rear of his new house on the river front. These buildings made entirely of concrete blocks are a fine addition to that end of town.

The school house got a good scrubbing and general cleaning last Saturday but it took three teachers, four scrub women and a committee of the V. I. A. ladies to accomplish it. Being a school trustee is not the easiest kind of a job in these strenuous days.

The street cleaning committee of the V. I. A. has been unusually active the past week. Some boys caught throwing paper on the street will not soon forget the lecture they received in consequence. City that some older persons could not be treated to a like experience. Some portions of our town would present a less disgraceful appearance perhaps.

FRANCE ANXIOUS TO SECURE

BENEFIT OF MINIMUM TARIFF.

PUBLICATION OF COUNTRIES THAT GET THE BENEFIT OF THE MINIMUM PROPOSITION ALARMS FRANCE AND GERMAN.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The publication by President Taft of a list of the countries granted minimum tariff rate by the United States, excluding Germany and France, has greatly alarmed France. The Minister of Commerce announced today that he would ask the French Senate to reduce the tariff schedules, making them more favorable to American trade. This will necessitate radical changes, but on account of the growing French commerce with America they are anxious to secure the advantages of the minimum tariff proposition.

AVIATION COSTUMES THE

LATEST AMONG AU FAIT.

WEARING APPAREL, STYLE AND

FABRIC SHOW OPENED TODAY

AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Automobile costumes are all right for the old fogies, but those who would be strictly up to date must have an aviation costume or two. This applies to all ladies and gentlemen who would be au fait, not to say bang tong. In Paris all of the beau monde will soon be clad cap-a-pie in the most fetching costumes de aviation, a la mode, comme il faut. Wherefore Americans must go and do likewise, and to this end the second International Wearing Apparel, Style and Fabric Show, opened today in Madison Square Garden is showing the newest styles in garments for the air as well as airy garments.

In addition to the aerial togs the latest novelties in all that goes to clothe men and women will be exhibited during the week, with living, breathing models to show off the glad rags to the best advantage. All of the Gibson men who pose for pictures for clothing advertisements, and all of the fair maidens whose charms are depicted in the announcements of evening gowns, corsets, and so forth, have been engaged for the show, and the visiting public will be permitted to see many of their old friends in the flesh. The entire exhibition space in the big garden has been taken by manufacturers and importers, with the women's wear department largely preponderating.

John Milligan has been confined to his home for several days because of sickness.

Mrs. Carnelia Scott and her daughter, Miss Mary, arrived from Sandwich, Ill., for several weeks' stay in Ormond. They are with Mrs. Watson.

We are pleased to note the appearance once more of Miss Jane Abbott. She has had a hard time with that cold she brought from New York State.

Mrs. Mary Lawrence is making arrangements to build a concrete block wall across the front of her property on Pine street. F. P. Freeman will supply the blocks.

Mrs. Webb, who has spent several winters in Ormond as guest of Mrs. Lawrence, came South this season with a bad attack of the grippe but is slowly recovering.

Don't mention the very new sign boards of a certain shoe company to some of the ladies of Ormond unless you want a varied and vigorous opinion as to the beauty of those same signs.

DAYS OF GOVERNMENT PRESS

AGENT ARE NUMBERED.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The days of the government press agent are numbered.

In all the political cow lots of Washington few mushrooms have come quicker or flourished more lustily. But, Congress—and what's more—Tawney, is against the system.

This is the story from its start. To Colonel Theodore thus spake Gifford Pinchot: "The trees are falling fast. The people are indifferent. They do not hear the axe."

Theodore replied, "Pipe it to them." It was then that Gifford Pinchot (he was chief of the forest service at that time) instituted a press bureau that in no time had the people weeping every time a dead leaf rustled. And they did more. It was alleged upon the floor of both houses of congress that the bureau had not confined itself to writing sonnets on the fallen tree nor yet to patting G. Pinchot upon the back. Doubtless had they done this, they would still flourish, but they had used their pens, it was alleged, to prevent the reelection of several congressmen not quite in accord with the sentiments of the forest service.

So in the appropriation bill which passed Congress during the last session there appeared a warning that none of the funds appropriated for the Forest Service should be used in the preparation of any article for any paper or magazine.

In the meantime, several other departments set up press agencies. The postoffice department, the Reclamation service, the Bureau of Soils of the Department of Agriculture, the Census Bureau, together with unofficial bureaus, organized in their own news agencies.

In the olden days the press representatives of Washington were wont unhindered to traps around from office to office in search of news. Under the present system of press bureau the news is dished out to them well sauced with official attitude. Alas, as the press agents hope some day to get a raise, they throw in a few remarks on the great and glorious doings of their "bosses."

The newspaper men didn't mind it at first. It was sort of nice during hot summer days, not to run around and get tired out hunting news items in the departments, when there was a press agent to prepare nice little pieces for the paper, which could be secured by the office boy.

But when Congress convened and the editors at home commenced thinking a good deal about Washington and demanding more "stuff" from their correspondents there, then it was that the press agent system came in for round denunciation. The newspaper men complained that everything was bottled up. There was no chance for the ambitious correspondent here to pull off a "scoop" to remind his editors at home that he was a deserving young man and needed a raise in salary.

Now it is whispered about that Rep. Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations will insert a specific prohibition against press agents in every appropriation bill which he reports for passage. Needless to say he will get all the publicity he desires in his campaign against the system.

FORMER MAID DECLARED

MRS. CHRISTY GOT DRUNK.

FURTHER DAMAGING TESTIMONY

NY GIVEN AGAINST THE ARTIST'S WIFE TODAY.

ZANESVILLE, O., Jan. 19.—Further damaging testimony against Mrs. Howard Chandler Christy was given this morning in the suit brought by her to recover their daughter, Natalie, from her artist husband.

A former maid servant in the Christy New York apartments declared she had often let Mrs. Christy into the apartments when the latter was drunk. She also said the chauffeur, Perdy, had visited Mrs. Christy in her bed room, while the artist was away.

Early Advantages.

"The trip has had its discomforts," said Noah as the ark settled on Mount Ararat.

"Yes," replied his wife. "But it is a comfort to land without being troubled by the customs inspectors."—Washington Star.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

Mr. and Mrs. L. Jaques, of New York, who have their headquarters at The Ridgewood, have just returned from Cuba.

Miss Bertha Ruffner, of the American Hotel Resort Bureau of New York arrived Monday and is a guest at The Ridgewood.

Recent arrivals at the Despland are Jas. Rice and A. S. Rice, Trenton, N. J.; H. R. Allen and Mrs. H. M. Allen, Grand, Ohio; F. E. Dewson, Windsor, Ont.; Mrs. Alex Forrester, Cleveland, Ohio.

Recent arrivals at The Ridgewood included L. D. May and wife, St. Louis; Mrs. M. E. Larter and children, and Miss Estelle Rice, Wilmington, Del.; Mr. and Mrs. C. Montgomery, Charlotte, N. C.; and L. J. Johnson, Chatahoochee.

A Salutory Lesson.

"Now, remember your salutes," said the English corporal when posting the Irish recruit on sentry. "If you see a lieutenant—he wears one star on his shoulder—slope arms; if a captain—two stars—slope arms; if you see a major—a crown—present arms; if the colonel—stars and crown—present and turn out the guard."

Pat pondered his orders carefully, but presently he was awakened from his reverie by the approach of the general.

That worthy son of Mars surveyed the cross swords on the gallant officer's shoulders and as he was not included in the corporal's category simply nodded cheerfully.

"Well, my man," said the genial general, "and who are you supposed to be?"

"I'm supposed to be a bit of a sentry," said Patrick. "And who are you?"

"Oh, I'm supposed to be a bit of a general," said the latter.

"A general, is it?" cried the startled Pat. "Then ye'll want something big. The corporal told me about the others, but nothing about yourself at all, at all. But hold hard a minute, and I'll give ye the bayonet exercise, if that'll do."

A Resourceful Woman.

"I think it is a foolish fashion that so many women indulge, that of telling their age wrongly," said the woman with the prematurely gray hair. "I can honestly say that I never practice it myself."

"No?" said her friend, with many meanings in the monosyllable.

"Well," said the first speaker, with a smile—she was a woman with a sense of humor—"the fact is I don't have to. I have a way of making myself out younger than I am if I wish to without telling a fib at all."

"Really?" inquired the other curiously. "In what way?"

"I put the burden of the fib all upon the questioner. You see, when one of my dear women friends—it is always women who are curious on this point—asks me how old I am I say: 'Oh, I'm a year or two older than you, you know, my dear—at least a year older. Let me see, now, how old are you?' And then she always knocks more off my age than I should ever have the nerve to do myself."

A Bee That Digs.

Dr. John B. Smith gives the name of "digger bee" to a blue green bee having a metallic sheen, which may be seen flitting about sandy places during the first heats of May. With the aid of liquid plaster of paris poured into the holes that it makes in the ground he has followed the bee through a wonderful course of digging. The work is done by females, and its primary object is to provide protected cells in which the young are bred. The bee makes a tunnel a quarter of an inch in diameter, which after starting for a few inches on a slope runs straight down into the ground. At the depth of a foot or more short lateral tunnels are driven, and at the ends of these are formed the breeding cells. Having provided for her young, the bee "continues to dig down and yet farther down until she is four feet or even more beneath the surface, dying from sheer exhaustion about the time her first progeny begin to make their way to the surface."—London Mail.

Daniel and the Lions.

An old negro preacher in Kentucky was dilating upon events in the Bible which had a zoological trend. He described the deluge and how all the animals, two by two, went into the ark and were saved. Then he discussed the incident of Jonah and the whale, Balaam's ass and finally the exploit of Daniel, who entered the den of ravening lions and emerged unharmed. His auditors listened with interest, and some of them seemed to have their doubts as to the authenticity of the tales.

Finally one of the younger negroes rose up and inquired, "Say, pahson, wuz dem lions jest like the kind we has now?"

"Cose not, cose not," retorted the preacher, irritated at having his discourse interrupted. "Dey was B. C., meaning befo' circuses."

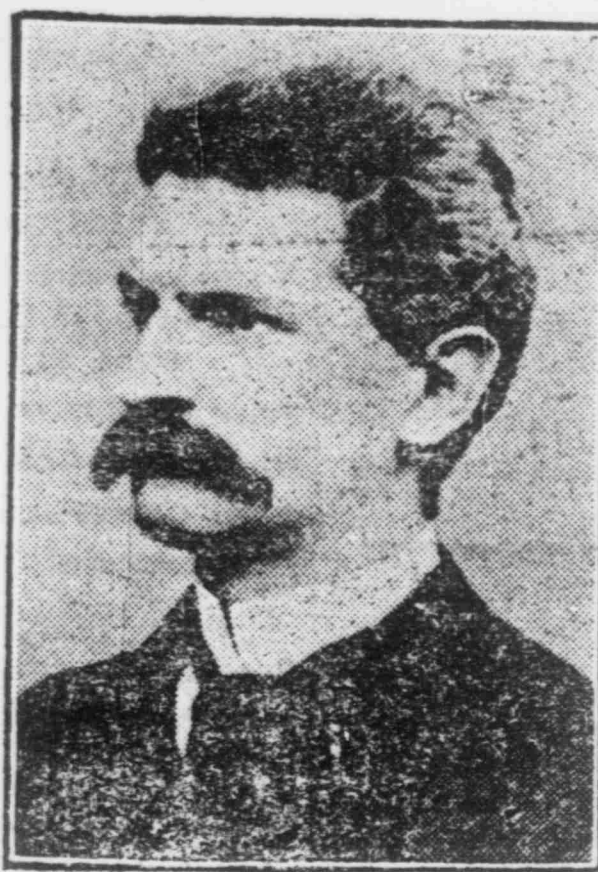

The explanation was sufficient and satisfactory.—Buffalo Commercial.

Seventeen Year Locusts.

The seventeen year locusts are sometimes called Pharaoh's locusts because they make a sound that resembles the repeating over and over of that historic name. The notes or songs are not what might be termed vocal, as they are produced by the rapid vibrations of two very thin films that cover a small cavity at the base of the abdomen. In some localities the sound produced is somewhat different from that heard in other sections. Along streams, especially along the Ohio river, the notes are more bass, while on the highlands and especially in the mountain regions the sounds produced are more shrill.—Omaha World-Herald.

An Advantage.

A well known Scottish clergyman got into conversation in a railway carriage with a workman, who informed him that he had been a coupler on a railway for several years. "Oh," said the minister, "I can beat that! I have been a coupler for over twenty years." "Aye," replied the workman, "but I can uncouple, and you cannot!"

Don't Chase It

HUNTING AN IDEAL.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1933, by Associated Literary Press.]

The main reason why Phillip Hutchinson found himself a bachelor still at the age of forty was because he had an ideal and because he had never found her. He had looked and longed and hoped, but she had not crossed his path. She did not until after his fortieth birthday. Then fate or fortune or something else smiled on him.

Mr. Hutchinson was strolling up Fifth avenue, New York, when his eye caught a photo in a showcase. There she was—the counterfeit of the woman he had carried in his mind for thousands of days! Her hair was down, and she was draped as an angel. How the photographers get on to the angel business without going to heaven is none of the public's business. You can take their angels or leave them. This particular angel, as near as the old bachelor could figure out, had blond hair, blue eyes, ruby lips, and her voice was the trill of a bird.

The ideal hunter stood long before the picture and made up his mind to hunt the earth over to find the original. He did not go upstairs to find the artist. He waited down below for the artist's boy, and that rising young man replied to him:

"That gal? She came in a carriage and had a poodle. Took away our breath in a minute. If I growed up and had the scads—gee!"

"But her name, boy—her name and address," demanded the man with the beating heart.

"You can search me. The boss has got it in a book, and he keeps the book in a safe. She must be a Fifth avenue flier, though, and if you walk up and down long 'nuff you'll be sure to meet her."

If it hadn't been for the dreams that Mr. Hutchinson dreamed his legs and his perseverance would have given out. He had various dreams of the angel in the show case, and they always heartened him up for the next day's hunt. In those dreams he was always saving her from going over Niagara falls, from a mad bull, from a joy ride auto going ninety miles an hour and from other things.

March gave way to April, and still the search went on. Sometimes it rained on the searcher and sometimes it didn't. Sometimes he caught sight of a face in a carriage and hope eternal bubbled up in his breast, and sometimes he simply saw females and dragged his weary legs along. One must even give credit to the rat that gnaws through a two inch plank. Clubmen wondered and talked, but they didn't get hold of the truth. They took it that Mr. Hutchinson was haunting Fifth avenue in search of a site to erect an old man's home. If they had any other idea he was a man not to be questioned.

April dragged away and May came in. Up one side of the avenue and down the other, just the same. The photo still remained in the showcase, and it was scrutinized regularly at least twice a day. The photographer's boy still remained, and gradually a feeling of pity came into his young heart for the persevering searcher. He always encouraged him with a nod when they met, but it was well along in May when he waited at the showcase with a smile on his face to say:

"Say, I've got news. That angel was in the gallery ag'in yesterday."

"You don't tell me!" gasped Mr. Hutchinson.

"Sure as shootin', and she ordered the boss to send fifty of her photos to Coney Island. Said she was going down there today."

"But what for?"

"Dunno. That's what she said. Maybe her dad has rented Dreamland for a bungalow. You order find her down there in a day."

"You are sure it was the same?"

"Sure Mike! Can't any one tell an angel after seeing her once? You go right down there tomorrow and you'll find her!"

What was money to the searcher when the search was so near ended? Another five changed hands, and at the club that evening they noticed the great change in Mr. Hutchinson. He was joyous and loquacious, and they said he had finally bought the site. He was down at Coney by 10 o'clock next forenoon. By noon he had made sure that no angels were registered at any of the hotels. By 2 o'clock he had exhausted the bungalow idea. Then a feeling of despair crept into his heart, and he entered a concert hall to brace up on a sandwich and a glass of beer. He didn't brace. He wouldn't have got into the place if he hadn't fallen in. At the door, in a big, cheap frame, were a dozen photos of the "actresses" then doing the high kicking on the stage, and that of the angel of the showcase led all the rest. Mr. Hutchinson fell into the hall and on to a chair, and for five minutes things buzzed in his head, and he couldn't give his order to the waiter, who was wondering if he was a dead beat. Then he saw the stage and his angel. She was warbling and kicking—kicking at the roof. Stunned, paralyzed and dumfounded, he watched her until the curtain was rung down. Then she descended from the clouds to him, and in her birdlike trill she asked:

"Well, poppy, do you buy your girl a beer?"

Two blocks away Mr. Hutchinson sunk down, and the policeman who came running up to render first aid called to the crowd:

"Now, everybody stand back! This man has had a sudden shock, and there's no telling what's going to be the result!"

A BURIAL.

By MARTHA V. MONROE.

[Copyright, 1933, by American Press Association.]

The sun was standing low off the coast, about to go down into a bank of red clouds, when a French ship was noticed making for the harbor. She came on until within a mile of the docks, when she was brought up to the wind and the stillness was broken by the rattle of her anchor chain in her hawse pipes, followed by another rattle marking the lowering of her sails.

On the dock were various loiterers all looking at the Frenchman. There were customs house men, ready to balk any attempt at smuggling, free traders watching for an opportunity to get goods off the new comer without payment of duties, and the chronic lounge, who has no business in view whatever. The chief of the customs officers deployed his subordinates as a general would post his men to be ready to meet a possible attack. He was a pompous old fellow, seemingly as anxious to display his zeal as to do his duty by his government and ready to nip in the bud any attempt to run goods ashore surreptitiously.

"They are lowering a boat, sir," said one of his men, saluting respectfully.

"Notify all the stations," was the prompt reply. "It will doubtless not move till after dark, when it will make for one of the creeks. She must be intercepted."

But the boat did not wait for the darkness. She put off as soon as released from the davits, and, what was still less anticipated, was pulled directly for the dock where the chief was standing. On came the boat, bobbing up and down over the waters, whose crests were made blood red by the rays of the sinking sun.

"They've got a box aboard, sir," remarked a customs officer.

The chief knit his brow and drew down the corners of his mouth severely, indicating that any attempt to defraud the government would go hard with the perpetrators, but on second thought he concluded that people did not attempt to smuggle thus openly and relaxed.

"It's a coffin, sir," said another.

"Somebody's dead."

"Of course if there's a coffin," said the chief sternly, "somebody's dead. You don't suppose they'd be bringing it ashore empty."

When the boat pulled up at the foot of the steps of the dock those looking on took off their hats respectfully in presence of the dead. A Frenchman with a serious expression came up, and the chief of the customs advanced to meet him.

"Are you the mayor?" asked the sailor in broken speech.

"I'm the collector of the port," was the dignified reply.

"Well, monsieur, if you have the authority I would be obliged if you would grant us a permit to bury a body in your cemetery. I had on board my ship an American missionary lady, coming home from India. She was delicate, and from the first, having worn out her body in an execrable climate in the service of the Lord, I feared that she would never complete the voyage. Growing rapidly worse, she exacted a promise from me that in case she died before reaching port I would not commit her body to the deep. 'The waves are so dreadful,' she said, 'so merciless. Take me to the shore, put me in the ground and plant a willow beside my grave.'"

The captain paused, took out a bandanna handkerchief and wiped his eyes.

"Pardon this emotion, monsieur, but the good lady was so kind to us all. Every one of my men was devoted to her. She converted nearly all the crew."

He turned, cast a glance at the men in the boat, and they, too, showed a similar emotion.

"To keep my promise and to do what little I can to return the many kindnesses of this admirable woman I came far out of my way at great loss of time and money to leave her remains in your soil. I trust now that I have told my simple story you will not refuse me."

The chief stood listening respectfully, feelingly to the recital. Though a pompous man, he was a tender hearted one, and the story moved him.

"Do not think, monsieur," he said, "that the French are the only people to possess that consideration for their fellows which I admit, they have to an extraordinary degree. Permit me to thank you in the name of the United States government for your kindness to an American lady. Bid your men remove the body from the boat and I will myself conduct you to our little cemetery."

He sent a messenger ahead to make the necessary arrangements, and when the coffin was brought ashore a procession of melancholy sailors, nearly all in tears, followed it way slowly toward the cemetery. Then after waiting a short while for the completion of the opening of the grave, the body was deposited, the sailors returned to the dock and after a profusion of thanks on the part of the polite French captain they pulled out to the vessel and soon after made sail.

At midnight a party visited the missionary's grave, took out the coffin, and another procession proceeded inland to a desolate spot where few passed even by day. There they ruthlessly took off the cover and removed silks and lace to the value of many thousand dollars. This they placed in separate covers and, loading them on a light wagon, drove off to market the next day the remains of the sailors' beloved missionary, they participating in the profits.

There is No Place

Just Like Daytona

As a Resort in which to spend the winter or a part of it. Daytona is known the world over as the Prettiest Resort in Florida—and the Beauty of the City is as the Architect of the Universe left it.

ONE OF THE MANY BEAUTIFUL VIEWS IN DAYTONA.

If you are sojourning in Florida and have not yet visited Daytona your trip to the State is Not Yet Complete.

Come and See---

Daytona Awaits You.

WE CONFESS

We admit it frankly the Merchants Bank wants your business. But we also, can assure you that in return for your business, this bank not only offers a service which we believe almost perfect, but unquestioned security for every dollar entrusted to our care.

In cold, unassuming figures, here is our guarantee to every depositor regardless of the amount he may have in this bank.

Capital	$100,000.00
Surplus and Profits	50,000.00
Stockholders Liability	100,000.00
Total, $250,000.00

$250,000. That amount stands between your deposit and any possible loss.

We repeat: This bank wants your business.
